

Moving somethings around.

30/03/19 By Morgan Terrance Dark

Right I have been looking at the way I use my devices the last couple of days and the structure that I set in place. I have noticed that it is not very secure and I am at risk of losing my data if my hard drive ever gets corrupted, which is terrible. I have made a few notes to myself regarding online storage solutions. I browsed around for a good few weeks also looking for a good enough note taking application that I wanted to use for work, my website design and coding projects. I found it hard looking for a good note taking application that I could use comfortably, I did try quite a few of them including google keep and notion none of these I enjoyed using. So What I have been doing these last few days instead of working on the website and the Projects that I have up. I have been moving all of my notes files and other documentation that I have onto Google Drive as a off site backup. Now I use a portable hard drive for storing my projects but for these blog posts and my system backups I am going to be using drive for the future to come.

Other Plans

I maybe moving out, again. I am looking at a apartment future down the valley, still close enough up this end in order for me to get to work with no issue. So this place is massive and should be a good home for me and my family. I am looking forward to moving out and decorating this place. I may just use my laptop more frequently rather than set up my desktop in the place yet. I am trying to learn to cook a bit better also.