Linux Mint, and why I am switching back.

So, I want to get one thing off of my chest, This is not a full review of Linux Mint as a OS. This is more of me listing my reasons on why I am switching back to Linux as my Primary OS on my workhorse Laptop. I was using linux for a good year or two around two years ago. I even went so far as to post a few Distro reviews on both my personal website and on YouTube. Going back to the Linux Mint desktop for me at least feels like opening the front door to my childhood home. I feel a lot more productive and focus on this Dristro compared to Windows, because of the amount of hours I put in coding and writing on my laptop with Linux on there. I was always modifying and tweaking customization options with the desktop and also just doing the same thing with my personal website. I got so into it that I would like redesign my website every two months. I would create my website add all my content then get fed up wipe the slate clean and start again. I did all this before I even knew about things like BootStrap templates and things like that.

So for me I am switching to Linux because that is where I feel more Productive. I would like to hear what OS you guys are using and why. Drop me a email.
